

About Us

The firm of David Langley Architects began business in Woodland Park in 1981. Over the past 30 years, the firm has produced over 1500 projects throughout Colorado as well as in Wyoming, Idaho, and Hawaii. Projects include a wide variety of building types, construction methods and environments. Responsive design with a dedication to satisfied clientele has always been the priority. David Langley is a LEED's accredited professional since 2010.

Creativity that answers to challenging programs is combined with buildable designs respectful of the budget, producing successful projects. Also, the Principle Architect involvement with a small project staff provides both great efficiency and personal accountability for everyone.

David Langley Architects currently employees three Architects, one Designer and one Office Manager utilizing AutoCAD for all projects.

Application of construction methods includes heavy timber, concrete, steel and alternative building material.

This varied experience will assist in providing programming decisions, appropriate schematics and clear construction documents.
